The editor-in-chief of “Ido Movement for Culture” is a pioneer, coach, activist and popularizer of an athletic variety of jūjutsu in the region and one of the first in Poland. On the 25th anniversary of sport jūjutsu in the region of Podkarpacie shihan Jan Slopecki (10 dan) awarded Prof. Wojciech J. Cynarski with a 8 dan certificate in that discipline. The General Assembly awarded an honorary membership to the IPA for Prof. Juliusz Migasiewicz (Poland) and Prof. Jong-Young Lee (South Korea). In addition, on the occasion the 10th anniversary of the publication of the “Ido Movement for Culture”, four other people were given diplomas : Prof. Kazimierz Obodyński

Prof. W.J. Cynarski was the thesis promoter, Prof. K. Obodyński and Prof. AWF Andrzej Dąbrowski (the latter one from Warsaw) were the reviewers.

During the 2nd World Scientific Congress of Combat Sports and Martial Arts Dr Jan Słopecki (president of the EJKC) announced that 3 Budo personalities were to be honoured "For the Extraordinary Achievements in Martial Arts" no. 3, with Experts - Professor title, on behalf of the European Jujutsu & Kobudo Committee (EJKC) and the International Modern Ju-Jitsu Federation. They were handed out by the chairman of the Idokan Poland Association on behalf of the European Nobility Club.

The year 2010 is a jubilee for the enthusiasts of the radical humanism of Erich Fromm. It is connected with the 90th anniversary of the birth and the 30th anniversary of the death of this outstanding humanist. That is the reason why W.J. Cynarski in his book, which is being prepared, about the sociology of leisure, recreation and tourism included a chapter, devoted to Fromm's original social philosophy

New Books and Other Publications

Błach Wiesław [ed.] (2009), “Journal of Combat Sports and Martial Arts”, vol. 1, no. 1, pp. 70.

This is already the third specialist scientific publication coming out in Poland. The editor-in-chief is Dr W. Błach, the chairman of PA Judo and the member of IPA. The first issue contains 11 papers, including 2 affiliated by the Scientific Research Committee IPA: Adrian Piórko-Pawliński: Why karate apart from the past has also future – pro-health function of martial arts in a boarder context, (pp. 53-57) and W. J. Cynarski, Jarosław Walczak: Karate casus in Poland – towards sociology of martial arts (59-63).

Cynarski W.J., Sieber L., Obodyński K., Ďuriček M., Król P., Rzepko M. (2009), Factors of Development of Far Eastern Martial Arts in Central Europe, “Journal of Human Kinetics”, vol. 22, pp. 69-76.

In the Section III- Physical Activity & Social Issues of the publication from Katowice an article appeared, which is the outcome of the research undertaken by the IPA's team in co-operation with Rzeszow University. The article is an interesting contribution to the empirical sociology of martial arts.

Czerwiński Janusz, Sozański Henryk [eds.] (2009), Współczesny sport olimpijski. Zarys problematyki, AWFIS, Gdańsk, pp. 311.

This publication is devoted mainly to the theory of sports training. Two authors and their work go beyond the issues of motoricity and sports training i.e.: 1) Teresa Socha – Udział kobiet w sporcie olimpijskim (a historical study, which is also interesting from the perspective of sports sociology); Tadeusz Huciński and Marek Graczyk – Psychospołeczne uwarunkowania skutecznej rywalizacji sportowej w igrzyskach olimpijskich (with a systemic treatment of the psychical sphere of an athlete).

Jurek Tomasz, Obodyński Kazimierz, Zaborniak Stanisław [eds.] (2009), Z dziejów turystyki i sportu w Polsce, UR, Rzeszów, pp. 475.

This volume consists of four parts and is devoted to Prof. Jerzy Gaj on the occasion of his 80th birthday. Two texts of Prof. Maciej Łuczak are concerned with fencing: Pochodzenie i rozwój szermierki w Polsce do 1939 roku (pp.51-65); Życie i działalność trenerska Jánosa Keveya w Polsce (pp.136-148).

Kosiewicz Jerzy, Piątkowska Monika, Żyśko Jolanta [eds.] (2009), Social Sciences towards Contemporary Sport, BK, Warsaw, pp. 258.

A collective monograph about the philosophical perspective and social aspects of sport was published in Warsaw. The volume contains only one study about martial arts: Cynarski W.J., Human in anthropology of martial arts (pp. 73-80).

Piwowarski Juliusz [ed.] (2009), "Zeszyt Naukowy „Apeiron” WSBPI w Krakowie”, no. 3, pp. 202.

The Scientific Papers of College of Public Security and Individual „Apeiron” issues 2 and 3 were published. The authors attempt to refer to the methodology and concepts of theory of martial arts in the humanistic presentation, as e.g. Wiesław Kisiel: Współczesny mistrz sztuk walki – perfekcjonista czy coś więcej (pp. 170-180) presents his reflections on the role of a sensei. These issues contain 3 reprints of articles from "Ido Movement for Culture".

Saldern Matthias von (2009), Bushido. Ethik des japanischen Ritters, 2nd edn., UL, Lüneburg, pp. 180.

Prof. von Saldern is the editor of the second revised issue of the first volume in the publishing series "Geist – Technik – Körper" (Spirit – Technique – Body), a publication on the foundations of budō. In relation to the previous issue published 17 years earlier, the volume has been enriched by new source texts.

Socha T. [ed.] (2009), Współczesne problemy badawcze w szermierce, AWF, Katowice, pp. 164.

Under the scientific supervision of Prof. Teresa Socha a new interesting collective study containing 10 papers (reviews and original ones) was published. It includes, inter alia, works of members of the IPA's Fencing Committee e.g. Z. Czajkowski Istota, właściwości i znaczenie uwagi w uczeniu się i stosowaniu nawyków czuciowo-ruchowych (pp. 55-72) and G. Szajna, Piśmiennictwo szermiercze w polskiej literaturze sportowej (pp. 147-163).

Zadarko Emilian, Barabasz Zbigniew [eds.] (2009), Akademicka kultura fizyczna na przełomie tysiącleci. Vol. 2. Uwarunkowania historyczno-socjologiczne, PWSZ, Krosno, pp. 396.

Two PhDs from PWSZ in Krosno were the editors of the new book containing a few texts bringing in a new view (in a spirit of a new paradigm) on the issues of physical culture as a psychophysical practice. The volume containing works written from a social perspective were reviewed by professors from Rzeszow University: W.J. Cynarski, A. Nowakowski i S. Zaborniak.

Acevedo William, Gutiérrez Carlos, Mei Cheung (2010), Breve Historia del Kung-Fu, Nowtilus, Madrid, pp. 254.

Prof. Carlos Gutiérrez along with a couple of specialists prepared an interesting book – a short history of long-existing kung-fu. The book talks about legends, the Shaolin monastery, kung-fu cinematography and the contemporary sports of wushu. It should help a reader to get a better understanding of kung-fu and evolution of Chinese martial arts.

Bette Karl-Heinrich (2010), Sportsoziologie, Transcript, Bielefeld, pp. 194.

Prof. Bette is a sociology theoretician and a professor of sport sciences in TU Darmstadt. He has published a book, which is a collection of his fascinating reflections on sociology and sport. The presented issues are supported by German and Anglo-Saxon achievements in sociology. The book is an attempt to present sociology of sport as a particular subdiscipline. The Polish school of sociology is absent here with an exception of one book by A. Wohl, which is noted in bibliography.

Dziubiński Z., Rymarczyk P. [eds.], Kultura fizyczna a globalizacja, SALOS RP / AWF, Warszawa, pp. 517.

Another Salesian monograph contains a few works on martial arts e.g. a text by Rev. Stanisław Bulina Postawy religijne młodzieży uprawiającej taekwon-do ITF w świetle społecznej nauki Kościoła Katolickiego (pp. 189-200) about the religious attitudes of young people practising taekwon-do in the light of Catholic teaching. This is an interesting attempt of describing the effects of internalization of this martial art and its impact on practising religion.

Gutiérrez Carlos [ed.] (2010), “Revista de Artes Marciales Asiáticas”, vol. 5, no. 1, pp. 178.

A new issue of the Spanish periodical came out. The issue contains engrossing studies about the philosophy of martial arts by C. H. Hackney (pp. 7-18), whereas R. E. Dohrenwend (pp. 127-146) emphasizes the fact that self-defence can be used in the case of being attacked by fierce animal. In a newly-founded Scientific Committee among 18 members there are two Poles – W. J. Cynarski and S. Sterkowicz.

Ho Walter, Ren Hai [eds.] (2010), Global Perception, University of Macau & Beijing Sport University, Meyer & Meyer Sport, Macau, vol. 1, pp. 124, vol. 2, 230.

Under the patronage of the International Society for Comparative Physical Education and Sport (ISCPES) 2 volumes were published – the first titled: Globalization, Sport, Management and Traditions; the second one: Sport Education, Teaching of PE and Curriculum Studies. The first volume includes a study on archery by Na Young-il: The introduction and growth of Korean traditional archery to Korean Chinese of Yanbian province in China (pp. 41-48). The other one is about taiji quan A study of the affective and cognitive development of university students in learning tai-chi in Macau (pp. 107-116) and its autor is Lai lam-fong.

“Ido – Ruch dla Kultury / Movement for Culture”, vol. 10, no. 1, pp. 187.

The volume consists of 18 original studies, 3 reviews of the scientific conferences and 3 reviews of new books. There are also profiles of personas of martial arts and combat sports such as H. Birnbaum, Z. Czajkowski and D. Kim. There is also the Chronicle of 2009. The authors of the texts are prominent philosophers (as J. Szmyd), sociologists (M. Doupona Topič, L. Capranica), specialists on sports sciences (Z. Czajkowski, C. Gutiérrez).

Klinger-Klingerstorff Hubert (2010), Judo und Judo-Do: Die hohe Schule des Kampfes, Verlag Dr. G. Borotha-Schoeler, DDBV, Wien, pp. 128.

On the occasion of 30-year-anniversary of the DDBV the association published a book by baron Klingera von Klinferstorff (10 dan), which is a reprint of the issue from 1951. It was made possible thanks to the courtesy of Elfriede baronin Klinger von Klinferstorff, the wife of the deceased master. We find here the techniques of jūdō and jūdō-dō. The book is dedicated to Grand Masters Hannelore and Lothar Sieber, the founders of DDBV.

Khorasani Manouchehr Moshtagh (2010), Lexicon of Arms and Armor from Iran - A Study of Symbols and Terminology, Legat, pp. 560.

Prof. Dr Khorasani shows the exceptional catalogue of all types of offensive and defensive Persian weapons, armour, treatises on army rules and regulations, etc. with 350 colour illustrations.

Kosiewicz Jerzy (2010), Sport and Philosophy: From Methodology to Ethics, BK, Warsaw, pp. 334.

A book containing 15 works of Prof. Kosiewicz was published. Some of the similar issues have already been published in the “Ido Movement for Culture”. However, here they constitute a new quality and give a wider perspective on the conceptions of the philosopher from Warsaw. What is worth mentioning is the piece devoted to the philosophy of martial arts in relation to W.J. Cynarski’s scientific achievements (pp. 231-235).

Kosiewicz J., Bany P., Piątkowska M., Żyśko J. [eds.] (2010), Nauki społeczne wobec sportu współczesnego, BK, Warszawa, pp. 410.

A team from the Chair of the Humanistic Studies at University of Physical Education in Warsaw, under the supervision of Prof. Kosiewicz, published a book containing studies concerned with the philosophy of sport (10) and sports sociology (19). Among the texts there is one on the philosophy of martial arts: Cynarski W.J., Człowiek w antropologii sztuk walki (pp. 153-164).

Kowalczyk Stanisław (2010), Elementy filozofii i teologii sportu, KUL, Lublin, pp. 246.

The second version (revised, completed) by Rev. Prof. Kowalczyk was published. This excellent book – as one of the few – refers to the philosophy of martial arts, which is called here an oriental philosophy of sport. The author also refers to the essential polemics which was realised in the columns of “Ido Movement for Culture” (vol. 6 and 7), quoting his own publication and two articles by J. Kosiewicz published in the same journal. The main issue is the existence of sports philosophy.

S. Kowalczyk describes various dimensions of sport: ontological, social, ethical, aesthetical and theological. The book contains an English summary and the index of names.

Maczuga Tomasz (2010), Pałka teleskopowa – walka obronna, Prof.-Art., Sieradz, pp. 96.

Mgr Maczuga is a police officer and instructor of tactics and intervention techniques, as well as police shooting. He is a holder of 2 dan in the Filipino technique doce pares. He presents an interesting methodological elaboration directed to the police officers and other similar uniformed services. The instruction manual is complemented by richly illustrated materials.

Pasterniak Wojciech [ed.] (2010), "Dydaktyka LiteratURY", vol. XXX, pp. 376.

The jubilee 30th volume of the valuable periodical was published. Its contents are not only limited to philosophy but also contain numerous humanistic presentations and social reflections. Apart from the outstanding texts of Prof. Pasternak and A. Szyszko-Bohusz, A. Szołtyś and several other authors, the volume contains a text written from the perspective of psycho-physical anthropology of progress by W. J. Cynarski Wzory osobowe w nowych kierunkach psychofizycznej edukacji (pp. 181-187). A few examples from the range of pedagogy of martial arts were given.

Sanchez Garcia Raul, Malcolm Dominic (2010), Decivilizing, civilizing or informalizing? The international development of Mixed Martial Arts, "International Review for the Sociology of Sport", vol. 45, no. 1 (March), pp. 39-58.

The authors from Spain and the UK write about violence, "de-sportizing", "informalizing process" and hybridization of Eastern and Western combat styles. And they do it without references to the works published in the "Archives o Budo" and "Ido Movement for Culture". Also without such terms as "gladiatorship" and "cult of violence".

Uozumi Takashi, Bennett Alexander [eds.] (2010), The History and Spirit of Budō. IBU Budō Series Vol. 1, IBU, Katsuura, pp. 138.

A book describing mainly modern Budō was published under the auspices of The Budo and Sports Science Research Institute and International Budo University, under the supervision of Prof. Uozumi and translation of A. Bennett. The book contains references to selected items of Western literature.

Witkowski Kazimierz, Wolny Jarosław (2010), Podstawy ju-jitsu, AWF, Wrocław, p. 78.

The authors of this methodological study, reviewed by Prof. R. M. Kalina and W. J. Cynarski, are Dr Witkowski and Wolny (MA), the instructors of sports jujitsu. Although in the book there is not much of the original jūjutsu, it is solely a prolegomena for advanced studies or for a sports variety, original version, modern self-defence or traditionally understood way of martial arts.
